

Green Day is back!

Miami Shores Green Day was a tremendous success with approximately 8000 festival-goers and over 120 vendors and exhibitors celebrating all things green and earth-friendly. Miami Shores Village and the Greater Miami Shores Chamber of Commerce teamed up and brought entertainment that included the incredible Singer-Songwriter, Ines Barlartier, who charmed the crowd with her folkloric children's songs about life in Haiti, 8-foot tall tree lizards on stilts, and an energetic dance routine by Mady's Dance Factory. The Sunday Market offered artisan wares and a collection of food trucks and vendors offered a variety of delicious treats. Graber Group's luxurious 97th Street lounge was a cool respite from the heat of the day and 98th/GREEN Street had educational and creative offerings for everyone. Overall, our residents and friends came and enjoyed the day, leaving people with the impression we are not only the village beautiful, we are the village friendly.

Student-Led Effort Collects Over 12,000 Pairs of Shoes for Camillus House

What started as a small project for Loving Soles in 2011, has grown over time to become arguably the largest shoe collection drive in South Florida – certainly in recent years.

The organization was founded by Ileana Gutierrez McGoohan and her two teenage children who lead the grassroots efforts of collecting shoes for the homeless through their connections at schools and friends in their local area. Eventually as her kids aged out of high school, the torch was passed on to her neighbors and friends, in 2018 - the Inguanzo family. It remains a student-led initiative; in particular Sophia, Susanna and Christopher, high school students at Archbishop Edward McCarthy High School, are the driving forces, who for their first shoe drive collected 500 pairs of shoes. Now, more groups across Miami and Broward counties have been recruited to participate, and Loving Soles set out to reach the ambitious goal of collecting 10,000 pairs. That's a lot of shoes for this population in need.

Without their planning and prepping at least 6 months in advance, the shoe drive wouldn't be as successful – the payoff of their hard work is enormous. With the support of MSV and other municipalities, this year's efforts resulted in the collection of over 12,000 pairs of shoes (and counting). Thank you Miami Shores!

National Police Week Observed

Since 1962, law enforcement officers and their families and supporters have celebrated National Police Week. This monumental gathering to celebrate police forces and memorialize those who have passed away was established by President John F. Kennedy. Originally, President Kennedy designated May 15th as Peace Officers Memorial Day, and he included the week of this holiday as National Police Week. A new tradition was born.

Each year, thousands of law enforcement officers and supporters arrive in Washington, D.C., ready for a week full of activities, ceremonies, and conferences. National Police Week is intended to be an occasion for education, memorialization, and celebration. Hurricane Preparation: Let's Get Ready Miami Shores

Residents should begin gathering emergency supplies by June 1, the start of hurricane season. Once a hurricane warning is declared, most of your preparations should be directed toward securing personal items for your family and home. Below is a basic checklist to help you prepare:

Family Emergency Plan

Since you and your family members may not be together when a hurricane is approaching, plan ahead and talk about what you will do before, during and after a hurricane. Discuss how you will get to a safe place, get in touch with each other and get back to each other.

Your plan should contain:

- Phone numbers of a pre-assigned contact person for family members to call
- List and contact information of family members, friends, neighbors and physicians
- A safe place to store important documents in a waterproof container or bag
- How you will get assistance if needed for older adults or those with functional needs in the home
- How to turn off the water, gas and electricity safely

Hurricane Supply Kit

A supply kit is a container of items your family may need in or after an emergency. Most of the items can be found in your house.

It is important to put them in one place. Be sure every family member knows where the kit is kept.

- Keep loose items in airtight plastic bags.
- Gather the kit's items in easy-to-carry containers or duffel bags. Put them within reach, near the exit you use most often.
- Check and update your kit at least once a year.

Your hurricane supply kit should contain:

What Flood Zone Am I In?

As a property owner in South Florida, it is never about "if" a flooding event takes place, it's about "when" it takes place. It is important to know where your property lays in reference to the flood plain. A good resource that can help you to determine if your property is more susceptible to floods are the maps provided by the Federal Emergency Management Agency (FEMA). These maps are called Flood Insurance Rate Maps (FIRMs).

If you have ever wondered if your property lies within a Special Flood Zone Area or need the information for insurance purposes, you can always visit the FEMA website at <https://msc.fema.gov/portal/home> to search your address. In addition, we are always here to assist with any questions you may have regarding your property and its relation to the Special Flood Hazard Area.

Powerlines

Mitigation and preparedness are essential components of any successful emergency management plan. These concepts are part of how a community bounces back from any natural disaster. Miami Shores Village is committed to these concepts in order to be prepared for the effects of emergencies. During Hurricane Irma, Miami Shores was spared from the effects of a Category 4 or 5 storm, but we were not spared from the consequence of the wind and rain knocking out our power lines. Our community is very well known for its landscape and the beautiful trees, but in a natural emergency event like a hurricane, they can be detrimental if not maintained appropriately. This was a contributing factor to the power outages in our community. Miami Shores Village and Florida Power & Light worked diligently to counteract the effects of the power lines that were damaged by the storm. They effectively restored power to the community.

The Village of Miami Shores has codes and ordinances in place to assist with the effects of overgrown hedges, trees, and bushes that are growing close to or onto electrical lines:

Section 8-23

(c) Protection of electric power lines. Each person owning or controlling real property within the Village shall cause all landscaping situated upon such real property, including, but not limited to, trees, branches, palm fronds, vines, bushes and any other vegetative matter, to be maintained and trimmed so that no trees, branches, palm fronds, vines, bushes or other vegetative matter shall be situated at any point any closer than six feet to any energized electric transmission or electric service line.

Miami Shores Village will be conducting inspections of all the power lines located within the Village. During these inspections, we will be assessing landscaping within properties to confirm compliance with our code. In the event that the property has trees, branches, palm fronds, vines, bushes or other vegetative matter growing closer than 6 feet away or onto the power lines, residence will be issued a notice to trim back the vegetation. Residents can contact Florida Power & Light for information on companies that are trained to deal with vegetation on power lines. Residents also have the option of going to the ISA website, www.isa-arbor.com.
